Zeppelin Bombards City of Antwerp, Killing Many FISH GERMAN'S BACK FOR THE AERIALS

ANTWERP'S HOLDING AGAINST KAISER

After Destroying Several Out-
forts Germans Open Fire
on City, But Its Surrender
Will Be Contested to the Last

BOMBARDMENT LASTS
DURING ENTIRE NIGHT.
LONDON, Oct. 8.—(5-12 p. m.) Antwerp was subjected to a furious bombardment throughout last night, telegraphs the correspondent of the Associated Press from the city. Zeppelin balloons, 16 in number, were seen during the night, and the city was illuminated by the searchlights of the German fleet.

LONDON, Oct. 8.—All eyes today are turned to the city of Antwerp, whose fate is regarded here as important out of all proportion to the numbers of men engaged in its attack and defense. Germany not only must keep an open house in France, it is argued here, but she must be prepared to close the back door to the sea.

The war has presented no picture of greater desperation than that of the battle of Antwerp, dumb with terror, the city of the destroyers of Liege and the city of the destroyers of Antwerp. The only ray of hope from the allies' standpoint is found in the news that the river estuary has been reinforced by fresh troops and guns.

Up to the present time only one great German ship has been brought into the river and this piece of artillery is fired only at infrequent intervals. Guns half the size of the destroyers of Liege and many machine guns.

According to formal notification sent to Antwerp by the German command, the active bombardment of the city now under way. This is confirmed by the following message from Antwerp: (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2.)

There's a Comfy Room for You

When the day's work is done, what a relief it is to return to a nice, clean room, one comfortably furnished and well cared for. Here you can relax and feel like home.

Such accommodations are hard to find, those who have room to rent in the best and most accessible location naturally seek the aid of the "Rooms for Rent" columns of the Journal.

To reach all the people effectively, no, if you don't find that which pleases you, look for it tomorrow. If your requirements are unusual, write a letter to the "Rooms for Rent" column.

MINISTER FIGHTS TO ABOLISH DISCIPLES' CONVENTION SYSTEM

THESE PRETTY GIRLS are some of the pages and lunch servers at the convention of the Disciples of Christ now in session at the auditorium. At the top left is Miss Sallie Carroll, a page; at bottom left is Miss Marion Perdue, a lunch server; in the center is Miss Stella Carroll, a page; at the right is Miss Tommie Perdue, a lunch server.

Rev. W. H. Book Declares Friction Has Resulted and Opportunity Been Created for "Ring Rule"

Declaring a convention paves the way for ecclesiastical politics, and frankly expressing the opinion that evidences of the same are already to be seen, Rev. W. H. Book, pastor of the Tabernacle Christian church Columbus, Ind., created a sensation in the International convention of the Disciples of Christ Thursday morning by introducing a resolution which proposed to abolish the whole convention system and organization, which was inaugurated last year at a meeting in Toronto and which is being given its second trial in the present convention.

Mr. Book said one of the cardinal features of the church of polity of the Disciples of Christ is that each congregation shall be self-governing, and the convention system violates this principle because it puts the government of all congregations of Disciples in the hands of a "convention ring" which is liable to capture the control of the organization.

His resolution asserted that the convention already has failed of its purpose in three important particulars, to wit: "Whereas, it was designed to increase the resources of the missionary societies, but instead has become an added expense and a drain on funds raised for missionary purposes;

Second, it was designed to promote unity and harmony, but instead has resulted in a division where formerly the best fraternal feeling prevailed, and has caused friction where formerly the best fraternal feeling existed.

Therefore, the resolution proposed that the present convention recommend to next year's convention that the convention be abolished.

Discussing his resolution, Mr. Book declared thousands of Disciples will not attend the convention because they do not approve the system, which means the convention is not a truly representative body. (Continued on Page 7, Col. 1.)

MANY DIVORCE SUITS PROVE PRESENT LAW FAILURE, SAYS JUDGE

Sweeping Reforms in Marriage and Divorce Laws of State Are Needed, Declares Judge Ellis From Bench

"Not only should the trial laws in regard to divorce cases be changed, but also the laws pertaining to marriage license. The ordinary should require the presence of the contracting parties and their parents before issuing the license," said Judge W. D. Ellis of the superior court in his divorce jury Thursday.

One hundred divorce cases have been disposed of in three days by this jury, fifty of these were final decrees; fifty first verdicts. When the last case was ended Thursday, Judge Ellis, in an impressive talk, advocated sweeping changes in the divorce and marriage laws of Georgia.

"Sometimes ministers of high standing and dignity perform the ceremony at the marriage of children. An inquiry into this situation would disclose shocking facts."

"I would rather try the most intricate and complicated law suits between men who are contesting their rights than divorce cases—cases that not only involve the hearts of people, but also the property of the state." (Continued on Page 2, Col. 1.)

BIG FIRMS PLANNING TO PURCHASE COTTON

Buy-a-Bale Movement Continues to Gain Strength All Over the Country

The buy-a-bale-of-cotton movement continues to gain strength throughout the country. Reports Thursday from the north and east say a number of large corporations are planning purchases on the largest scale yet announced, and the details of these purchases are expected to be made public shortly.

Instead of buying a loving cup, President Charles J. Haden, of the Georgia chamber of commerce, with a fund subscribed for that purpose at the recent annual meeting of the chamber in Macon, E. W. Stetson and Albert M. Smith, to whom the fund was delivered, have bought a bale of cotton at 10 cents a pound, and it has been placed on Mr. Haden's front porch on Peachtree road. This was done at Mr. Haden's own suggestion.

The DuPont Powder company, of Wilmington, Del., which recently joined the buy-a-bale movement by purchasing 125,000 worth of cotton at 10 cents a pound, has extended its proposition, announced at the time the purchase was announced, with reference to shotgun shells loaded with DuPont powder. It has now notified buyers and dealers that it will buy one bale for each 50,000 shells ordered prior to January 1, 1915, and for remaining unfilled portions of orders already placed.

The cotton went to many nations in Europe and to Japan, Mexico and Eastern Africa.

SPECIAL SESSION OF LEGISLATURE URGED TO PROTECT W. & A.

Governor Slaton Asked to Take Immediate Action in View of Plan to Build Competing Line

Impressed with the seriousness of the peril which would affect the state's most valuable asset if the Western and Atlantic railroad is paralleled by a competing line, state officials and other prominent citizens are urging Governor Slaton to immediately call a special session of the legislature to enact such laws as will protect the state road from the menace with which it is threatened.

The governor is known to have these suggestions under consideration. It has also been suggested that in the event the governor decides to call the legislature to meet, he should include in his call a provision which will authorize it to give consideration to measures looking to the reduction of next year's cotton crop, thereby co-operating with other southern states in guaranteeing to the world at large that there will not be an overproduction of cotton next year.

Governor Slaton has not determined upon his course of action, but it is known that he is fully aware of the necessity of some action to conserve the state road, and it is believed that if he calls a special session of the legislature for this purpose he will not permit the general assembly to consider a cotton acreage reduction law.

Although the Secretary of State, Philip Little, has been in the city had been refused. (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2.)

BEATLES THE ENEMY EXTENDS ALMOST TO NORTH COAST

(By Associated Press.)

PARIS, Oct. 8.—(3-16 p. m.)—The following official announcement was made in Paris this afternoon: "First. On our left wing, in the region of the department of Nord, the enemy has made progress at no point. At certain points he has moved back, particularly to the north of Arras, where the fighting is developing under conditions favorable to us. The operations of the opposing forces of cavalry are developing at the present time almost as far as the season on the north."

"Second. On the center, between Rheims and the Meuse, there is nothing to report. On the heights of the Meuse, between Verdun and St. Mihiel, the enemy has drawn back to the north of Hattonchatel. St. Mihiel still holds St. Mihiel and some positions to the north of the St. Mihiel on the right bank of the Meuse."

"In the Woerthe district the violent attacks delivered by the enemy to the west of Apremont have failed."

"On our right wing, Lorraine and the Vosges, there has been no change. In Russia, along the front of East Prussia, the Russian offensive continues. Very spirited fighting is taking place on the frontier to the west of Suwalki."

ANOTHER GERMAN AEROPLANE DROPS BOMBS ON PARIS.
PARIS, Oct. 8.—A German aeroplane flying over Paris and the suburbs of Aubervilliers and Saint Denis, at 4 o'clock this morning, dropped two bombs, one of which wounded three physicians. The other did no harm.

RUSSIANS OCCUPY ONE-FIFTH OF HUNGARY, CLAIMS ENVOY.
BUDAPEST, Oct. 8.—(London, 1:30 p. m.)—Answering the statement from Vienna that the Russians have been driven out of Hungary the Russian ambassador to Italy declared today that Russian forces now occupy the entire province of Bukovina, seven-eighths of Galicia and one-fifth of Hungary, all the passes in the Carpathian mountains and the Hungarian towns of Ungvár, Munkacs and Szeged, in the eastern part of Hungary between thirty and forty miles from the Galician border.

GERMAN OFFICIAL STATEMENT CLAIMS SUCCESSES AGAINST ALL ENEMIES.
LONDON, Oct. 8.—A Berlin dispatch to the Reuters Telegram company contains an official statement given out at 4 o'clock this morning in Berlin on the evening of October 7. It follows: "The engagements on the right wing in France have not led to any decisive results. The attacks of the French in the Argonne and from the northeast front of Verdun have been repulsed."

"On the left wing, the attack has crossed a section of the river Nethe. The Russian forces in the Carpathian mountains have been repulsed. In Poland, in minor successful engagements west of Ivangorod, we captured 4,800 prisoners."

BULGARIA REPORTED IN WAR ON SIDE OF GERMANY AND AUSTRIA.
LONDON, Oct. 8.—The Central News quotes the Vienna Reichspost as stating that furious fighting has taken place between the Bulgarians and Serbians and that the Bulgarians have besieged Istip, Servia.

If this dispatch is true, it would indicate that Bulgaria has entered the war on the side of Germany and Austria. There is no official notice that such action, however, has been taken, and it may be that Bulgarian irregulars have attacked the Serbians on their own account.

Summary of Today's War News Gives Advantage to the Allies

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—The fate of the Belgian army is a striking feature of the day's war news. Since the withdrawal of the government from Brussels to Antwerp the entire fighting force of the little kingdom has been concentrated in or about the latter city. And now the fall of Antwerp before the German attack has reduced the force of Liege and Namur is threatened.

Advices from neutral sources confirm the reports that the Belgian army has broken through the outer circle of fortifications, crossed the River Nethe and brought their big guns within range of the city proper.

The Belgian government has been transferred to Ostend, the populace is fleeing into Holland and flags of mercy are flying from the steeples of churches to indicate that these structures are spared will not be utilized in the defense.

If the city falls, the Belgian army has the alternative, barring surrender, of attempting to fight its way through the German infested country to effect a junction with the British army in the north. There is to be interned until the war ends. The latter course would eliminate Belgium as a factor in the great struggle. For days Antwerp has been reported to be the hope of the left wing of the allies would swing around in time to save the city. Reports from the battle line have made it plain that success from this source was extremely doubtful.

It is believed the bombardment of Antwerp began today after a demand for the surrender of the city had been refused. Little change on the battle line in the afternoon of the French war office. It says that on the French left wing the Germans have made no progress, while at certain points they have moved back. On the right wing there is no change, it is said. The situation on the center remains much the same. Violent attacks in the Woerthe district have been repulsed. It is stated, but no details of the fighting are given. According to the French statement the Russian offensive continues along the front of East Prussia. A wireless dispatch from Berlin says that the British and Japanese attacks on Tsing-Tau have been repulsed. Tokyo announces officially that the German fire from Tsing-Tau is slackened. The report widely circulated from sources hostile to Germany that Emperor William had removed General von Moitte as chief of the general staff, is proven untrue by reports from neutral quarters. A German aeroplane visited Paris today, dropping two bombs, one of which wounded three persons. It is announced that the Russians have been driven out of Hungary. A development of the war situation is the apparent mild relaxation in the censorship at Berlin. From the beginning the German censors have been exacting in the performance of their duty, but for the past day or two they seem to have permitted the correspondents to write more freely. It is announced in London that Canadian troops arrived in the British Isles today.

Demonstration Week

Your Senses Will Tell You That Rich's Has Lavish Stocks of NEW Merchandise at OLD Prices

BECAUSE of the European war and much unfounded rumor, many people have thought that merchandise would be hard to get, or that such merchandise would be higher in price.

—The purpose of "Demonstration Week" is to prove to you

BY SIGHT—that lavish stocks of merchandise are here.

BY TOUCH—that qualities grade up to last year's standards.

BY REASON—that Prices at Rich's are unmatchably low.

—At the start of the European war we promised that despite conditions we should have ample stocks at our usual reasonable prices. Your own senses will tell you how well we have put our WORDS into DEEDS.

New Ribbons 21c

Six-inch pure silk ribbons in solid color moires and taffetas; Roman stripes, Persians, plaids, etc. Light, medium and dark colors. (Main Floor, Right.)

Ladies' Umbrellas $1.29

Best grade "American taffeta," fast black and warranted water-proof. Silk canes; many styles carved handles; ribbed; 26-inch size. (Main Floor, Right.)

Linen Towels 25c

"PUT this in big type."

says the linen chief: "we owe it to our good friends to let them know they should buy quantities of these towels at 25c."

"You probably know why. Most of the flax comes from Russia, Germany and Belgium—they won't produce any this year, possibly none next. Linen is, therefore, must be higher in price."

"Moreover, even under the most favorable circumstances, these towels would be extraordinary values at 25c. Right now, we believe, you can not duplicate some of them under 35c. Try it and see."

—The stock here affords abundant choosing from the most complete stock of PURE LINEN towels ever assembled in Atlanta at 25c.

Webb's celebrated Dew Bleached, hemmed, huck towels, 20x36. Extra heavy Irish huck, hemmed towels, size 20x38 inches. Hemmed German huck towels with space for monogram, 19x36 inches. And what is Europe going to do about the empty stocking?

Here's hoping Christmas presents will not be contributed of war.

The business of moving capital in Europe goes on without much opposition.

A Southwide Conviction.

"My policy will be to extend financial aid to those who reduce the 1915 cotton crop one-half,
and to discourage in every proper way the planting of more than half this year's acreage in cotton, the other half to be planted in grain and food crops. I will confer with the supply merchants of this community and urge them to adopt the same policy."

The foregoing policy, originated by the Atlanta
Chamber of Commerce, has been signed by more than two thousand bank presidents in the cotton States, including four hundred and sixty-five in Georgia and four hundred and ten in Texas. The proposition appeals to business judgment and foresight. It strikes to the root of the present emergency and is a guarantee against another crisis in 1915. New acceptances are coming in so steadily and swiftly as to indicate that the financial influence of the South will be arrayed solidly behind the demand for cotton acreage reduction.

Furthermore, the rank and file of farmers who are forward looking and independent earnestly approve this policy. There can be no doubt that it expresses the best thought of the entire South. The people know it is wise, and they want to see it in effect. How just and how proper, then, it would be to force this public conviction into uniform and binding legislation.

The increasing exports of cotton indicate that somebody has got to have it.

Not far from two million men have been killed,
wounded or are missing, according to Berlin's estimate, in barely two months of war, and yet some people think the war can continue indefinitely.

Parcel Post Marketing.

Ten cities, Atlanta among them, were designated by the Postoffice Department last March as experiment stations for testing the value of the parcel post
as a medium of trade between country producers and city consumers. Advocates of the plan believed that if direct relations could thus be cultivated, the price of many food commodities would be cheaper and that the farmers' market would be broadened and uplifted. That these hopes have been realized, in part at least, is indicated by reports from the experiment points, recently made public by the Postmaster General.

The Atlanta postoffice handled during the summer months an average of one hundred farm-to-pantry parcels a day, and the new service was marked with steady growth. At Birmingham there was a daily average of seventy-five such parcels. At St. Louis
the record ran to ten thousand during May and June,
and the postmaster of that city describes the service
as "a popular and useful adjunct to the community's marketing facilities." "It will become an important factor in the commerce of California," says the postmaster at San Francisco. "There has been an increase of seventy-five per cent in the receipts of farm produce," says the postmaster at Washington. Indeed, in every part of the country where table supplies are produced and where the parcel post has been given a trial as a medium of exchange, the results have been encouraging.

It should be noted, however, that certain difficulties must be overcome before the new service is fully beneficial. The Baltimore postmaster, for example, reports that in his territory many farmers want to sell at the middleman's price, and the postmaster of Rock Island, Ill., well says that until the producer and the consumer "can be educated to the necessity of sharing the middleman's profits with one another, the system cannot meet with deserved success." The purpose of parcel post, marketing is to eliminate intermediate costs as far as possible, but if the producer insists upon retaining such costs the consumer will naturally prefer to buy in the old way.

Furthermore, many housekeepers want to see farm produce before buying it. If the rural seller once deceives or disappoints them, they are done with him and with parcel post marketing. It is particularly important, therefore, that the farmer should look carefully to all commodities he ships under this plan and should see to it that his customer receives full value. But the farmer who establishes a reputation for good produce and fair dealing can build up a large and profitable business with city customers
by means of the parcel post.

The new service is in no wise perfect; it could not be, as it was inaugurated only about seven months ago. But indications are that it is steadily improving and widening, to such an extent, indeed, that the Postoffice Department has decided to add a number of other cities to those where the experiment is already under way.

Keep Up Your Courage.

The belief that British cotton mills, and those of other European countries with the exception of Germany and Austria, will soon be operating is strengthened by recent gains in American cotton exports. On Tuesday nearly three thousand bales were shipped from New York, a small amount as compared with normal seasons but a distinct increase over the last few weeks. This lot included three thousand, four hundred and five bales to France, the first cotton shipped directly to that country since the war began;
five thousand, four hundred and seventy-eight bales to Great Britain, seven thousand, four hundred and fifty-five bales to other European lands, and more than twenty thousand bales to Japan.

These shipments, though not impressive, when considered singly or on their own account, are truly significant as forerunners of approaching activity.
It is to the interest of Great Britain and of other nations that can do so to keep their cotton mills running. All advice as to the effect that within sixty days at the latest British mills must buy cotton in large quantities. It is credibly reported, that there are now orders in the United States for a million bales to be bought for English spinners. The prices offered are too low to get the cotton, but as the South continues to hold its cotton reasonable prices will be offered, and the market will strengthen to a normal basis.

There is a clear prospect that Great Britain,
France and other countries which manufacture cotton will soon begin large purchases. The ocean lanes are now safe for commerce, and under the liberal navigation laws enacted by Congress some weeks ago an American merchant marine, adequate to handle cotton and other exports, is swiftly developing. A substantial foreign market is thus virtually assured.

In the meantime, our home demand for cotton goods is quickening. The Buy-a-Bale movement has not only absorbed thousands of bales of distress cotton at ten cents a pound, it has also begotten a broader and keener interest in lint cotton and cotton products than was ever known. In commenting on the new outlets for cotton which are presenting themselves, the New York Herald says:

"Washington advises state that the government is considering the substitution of cotton cord for the jute cord which is used to the extent of about 1,700,000 pounds per year in the post office department. The Southern Wholesale Grocers' Association has resolved to ask that all shipments to Southern points be packed in cotton bags wherever possible, and the Grain Dealers' National Convention, to be held this month in Kansas City, will also be asked to join the movement to substitute cotton for other kinds of bagging."

It is estimated that the substitution of cotton for jute as sacks for the shipment of grain and feedstuffs would lead to the consumption of approximately a million bales a year. The suitability and cheapness of cotton for this purpose have been demonstrated, so that there is good reason to believe that dealers the country over can be persuaded to use cotton bags and thereby aid the South.

In addition to prospects for an early revival in the foreign demand, and the opening of new channels for the reduction of cotton materials, there is a persistent, South-wide movement for a reduction of next year's cotton acreage. The Texas legislature is now in extraordinary session for the purpose of enacting a law to this end. It is likely that other Southern States will follow the example; certainly Georgia should do so. The moment it becomes certain or apparent that the 1915 cotton crop will be cut in half, there will be an irresistible advance in the price of cotton; and furthermore the South will be amply fortified against a return of the present emergency twelve months hence.

It is especially important for the next thirty days the South should keep up its courage. Let us not forget that while the war in Europe has overshadowed us with one of its darkest problems we have over known, there are still in the cloud and that forces of light and restoration are at work. Despair never overcame a difficulty or created a way of escape. Now of all times we must keep heart, must stand together and march breast forward. Upheld by this spirit and availing itself of every means at its command, the South will emerge from its ordal triumphant and secure.

We confidently expect to hear during the day from the Petrograd press agent that Russia is still winning.

There is every likelihood that the allies will agree to an armistice of sufficient length to get the returns of the world's series.

Another Herr Doctor is on the rampage. From his soft chair at Heidelberg Dr. Lenard, professor of physics, cries aloud for the destruction of London.
He must be heard. Especially is there to be heard respect for the temptations of Shakespeare, Newton and Faraday. The Herr Doctor is speaking in parables, but his meaning is plain. The special object of his projected attack is Westminster Abbey. It must go the way of the Cathedral at Rheims while London is meeting the fate of Termonde and Louvain. And, of course, in the interest of the spread of "kultur"

THRILLS FROM THE BATTLEFIELD

Kitchener Hammers Recruits Into Soldiers

BY HERBERT COREY

LONDON.—This is the way that Lord Kitchener makes recruits:—First he says to the recruit:
"Hammer 'em! Hammer 'em! Hammer 'em some more.
Break those men! Can't stand it. Those five through are fighting dead!"

Eight hours a day over the roads carrying full service kit. Sometimes a test march of fifty miles, sometimes a march of a hundred miles. Now and then a twenty-four-hour watch to teach them how to keep awake. Any sort of weather. No sort of roads at all. "Smash" you through mud and broken rain. Food 'em and work 'em.

They begin as little, greasy-faced, thin-cheeked, stoop-shouldered slum men. They come out thick-chested, big-muscled, brown, rugged devils. But they are not soldiers yet. Six months in the training camp is the Kitchener prescription for a month or so somewhere near the front doing the routine work of war—making, guarding prisoners and railroad lines and bridges. The knowledge sinks in that somewhere ahead better men are being permitted to get their fighting teeth.

Then one day "Kitch" turns 'em loose.
"The very best thing for a recruit in this stage," said one of Kitchener's old sergeants, "is to see a few other men broken and bloody. How they fight them!"
The big force for making soldiers. The motto:
There 100,000 men are hard at it every day. One sees them in every stage of development, from the thin-skinned recruit to the man who is ready before spring ready to be sent out to kill. There are a dozen or so training camps scattered through the island. Half a million men—pegs more—are being made into soldier shape. Not one of them will take the field before green grass time.

"It takes more to make a soldier," says Kitchener.
"It isn't enough to teach him how to march like a soldier and how to look like a soldier. He must learn to think like a soldier."
So Kitchener isn't in any hurry about his job. He told the houses of parliament the other day that his army would be ready to go to the front in May. That seemed queer to me, and I went to Aldershot to find out why. France is putting men in the field with less military experience than our milliammen own.
So is Germany.

"We can't put as many men in the field as the other nations. It is the army theory. 'So we must put better men in.'"
England has 150,000 regulars in the field in France.
The rest are called up from the reserves. There are only enough men available to the regular establishment to patch up the holes that will be torn in this line. England's reliance for the future must be upon the volunteers.

WHAT ALDERSHOT IS.
Aldershot isn't at all what I had thought it would be. It isn't a big town. It is a small place. It is a square. Scattered over it were to be patches of drilling men. In reality it is woodland and moor and hill and dingle. There are a few houses. There are a few roads along the roads. Every time a trotting a hill one saw in the valley below bodies of drilling men. In the distance the hills were seen. There were a few riding or playing with the big guns. Every valley held them. They were on every level patch of turf.
There were 100,000 men being taught there to be soldiers.

Aldershot town has a permanent population of 20, 000. The villages are scattered through this vast barren tract of land. But there are a few permanent villages in which 20,000 men are abetored in times of peace. Now there are great fun of wild parties growing among the brown of the hills. Here a rattle of drums breaks out. A squad of drummers are using long how to handle the sticks by the rifle fire one's ears. It is a trumpet learning to "tip" and "tongue." Next comes the crackle of rifle practice.

RETIRE SURPLUS COTTON WITH BANK DEPOSITS.

Editor The Journal: There have been many suggestions made as to solving the cotton situation since the European war broke out, that it has become a complex and formidable problem. Now we are in the midst of a crisis if we all will work together for the general welfare of everybody and pull together. This is no one person's business. Everybody should feel it their duty to lend a helping hand.

While I am a cotton buyer and want to buy cotton and I am a bank depositor and want to deposit my money, I am sure that we can get the price up where our farmers can afford to raise it, and all we can do is to make it profitable for them. The cotton buyer must do all we can to put the price up where our farmers can afford to raise it, and all we can do is to make it profitable for them. When the farmer prosper, then all our business will be good. The "buy-a-bale" movement is all right, but it is not enough. We must have a way to get the price up where our farmers can afford to raise it. From 7 cents to 5 cents per pound, or 10 per bale, but I think they should go further with it.
Not only buy one bale, but buy one cotton bale, or carry it, and then they can bank account. Buy the cotton at the market price, put it in the warehouse, or back yards or wherever you please, just so you have it when you need it, and hold it until the war is over and everything gets quiet and business becomes normal again. You will not only break even, but you will also have the chance of doubling your money.

I also have another scheme, and that is for everybody that has money on deposit that is not active, and that is for every body that has money on deposit that is not active, and that is for every body that has money

RECORD SWARMS TO GET TICKETS TO OPENER

Fans at Bleacher Gates 36 Hours Before Getaway

They're in Line 36 Hours Before Getaway-Tickets Are Scarce at $5 Apiece—Both Managers Confident—Little Betting

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 8.—Determined to witness the first contest of the world's championship series between the Boston Americans and the Philadelphia Athletics, a score of fans took their position in line outside of the bleacher entrance to Shibe park last night, more than thirty-six hours before the time set for the opening of the gates.

Hundreds of the reserve seat tickets have fallen into the hands of speculators, who are asking $25 for a set of three tickets. The price for a set of 12 seats was 25 and for a set of 32 tickets $15 was asked. Several arrests were made last night. Never before it was said, has there been such a demand for admission to the games.

Both Connie Mack and George Stallings, the rival managers, today expressed confidence in the outcome of the series. All the players of both teams are said to be in the best of condition, except Smith, who is in a Brooklyn hospital with a broken ankle. His place will be filled by Deal, who is in a Brooklyn hospital with a broken ankle. His place will be filled by Deal, who is in a Brooklyn hospital with a broken ankle.

BETTING VS. JAMES. Baseball followers generally believe that Bender, the Athletics' veteran Indian twirler, and Rudolph or James, star of the Boston pitching staff, will be the selections for the first game. The Athletics' team, in all probability, will be the same nine who started the world's series last year against the New York Giants.

Both teams planned to have their final workout today, the Athletics at Shibe park and the Americans at the National league grounds. Manager Stallings had requested the use of Shibe park for this afternoon in order that his men might become accustomed to the slants of the new rays, and was reported that he declined to use the grounds for practice at all when Connie Mack refused the request. Mack had offered him the grounds for two hours this morning, but declared that he had planned for the Athletics to appear at Shibe park at 2 o'clock, the hour at which Stallings for his afternoon workout.

LITTLE BETTING. There appears to be little betting on the series. The Mackmen are favorites at long odds in wagers that are being laid.

The so-called tuning-up process yesterday of the present world's champions and the winners of the National league pennant was of a mild character. The National leaguers spent more than two hours in the forenoon on the grounds of the Philadelphia National league club taking an easy workout. Bain fell during a part of the morning, in consequence of which the Boston manager refused to let his men extend themselves. Mack was the only member of the pitching staff to warm up.

The team practiced behind closed gates and the few supporters of the club who gave the players practice bestowed their attention upon Third Baseman Deal, who will go into the series in place of Smith, who is in a Brooklyn hospital with a broken ankle. Deal, who is in a Brooklyn hospital with a broken ankle, faced some stiff pitching. Stallings, who was reported to have been greatly depressed over Smith's misfortune, said he felt

Eyes of South Follow Vandy

Tech vs. Mercer, in Atlanta. Georgia vs. Sewanee, at Sewanee. Michigan vs. Vanderbilt, at Ann Arbor. These three football games are of primary interest to local fans Saturday. The Tech game starts promptly at 3 o'clock at Grant field. Mercer should be easy for the Jackets, and it is probable Coach Helman will use a bunch of second-string men.

Vanderbilt left Wednesday night for Ann Arbor. The fact that Michigan had a game this week, Wednesday afternoon, when the Wolverines defeated Mount Union college, 27 to 7, should work in Vanderbilt's favor, as the Commodore has been free since Saturday to install all the offensive drive, they can so as to score on the westward.

Fed Winners To Challenge

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 8.—By winning from St. Louis yesterday, the Indianapolis Federal league team, for the second time in two years, captured the Federal league pennant.

To Manager "Whoo Hoo" Phillips, the "silent leader" of the team who also was at the helm of the club last year when it won the first flag of the league, is given credit for a large measure for the winning of the second championship. He, however, ascribes the victory to his players.

The race between Chicago and Indianapolis teams has been close almost from the start of the season. Yesterday's victory for Indianapolis, while Chicago was losing two games, gave the local team, which was a half a game behind, a one game lead.

President Chime of the Federal, has announced he will challenge the winner of the world series on behalf of the attacks in the hands of the Braves instead of the center.

Gen. McGillicuddy probably will direct the attacks in the hands of the Braves instead of the center.

Kleck Sticks For 10 Rounds

ALEXANDRIA, La., Oct. 8.—Through constant clinching, Willie Kleck, of New Orleans, was able to stick ten rounds with Jack White, of Chicago, here last night. White did by far the better work in the open fighting, but Kleck's superior weight told in the clinches. Kleck had an even break in the early rounds but White fought like a demon the close rounds, and a few more rounds would have won decidedly.

White's best blow was a hard left to stomach and face, while to Kleck depended on wild swings. White made a great impression on the big crowd and a return match is probable.

Michigan Wins
ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 8.—Michigan, scored on for the first time this season, yesterday defeated the light but aggressive football eleven from Mount Union college of Alliance, Ohio, 27 to 0.

That case of Blues and Flares in the championship series was variedly important, proved that Harry Kupperman can do what he made a mistake.

Seniors Lead Emory Teams

EMORY COLLEGE, Oxford, Oct. 8.—After one game in Emory's intercollegiate football series, the standing is:
Seniors

On a sorry field generally spread with red mud the Seniors battered a victory out of the Juniors Monday afternoon by the score of 6 to 0. In the first half of the season, The lone and winning touchdown was made by Demond on straight line bucks in the second quarter.

The Juniors appeared unable to withstand the Senior line attack and once several got away for a beautiful forward run to the Juniors' disadvantage.

Confident Deal would do his best to measure up to Smith's ability at the bat. Weather in Philly Looks Bad For Opening Battle Friday
PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 8.—Today's weather predictions for the world's series baseball games here tomorrow and Saturday seem to be no hope for clear weather. The best forecast expected, according to the weather man, is low-hanging clouds with occasional light rains. However, if the real con game will be played.

George Stallings, the Boston manager, today declared the refusal yesterday of Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia club, to permit the Boston players to use Shibe park in the afternoon was unsportsmanlike, since the Athletics are familiar with the lights and shade of Fenway park, Boston.

Mack, it is understood, gave the Boston team the use of the playing field in the morning because he intended to use it in the afternoon, when he and also wanted to have the field prepared for the big game.

Maranville, Age 21 Years, Is Star of Braves' Infield

In the World's Series Baseball Magazine, "Rabbit" Maranville, of the Braves, is briefly classified as follows:
Walter J. Maranville, shortstop. Born at Springfield, Mass. Resides in Springfield. First professional engagement at New Bedford. Bats right and throws right-handed. Height, 5 feet 4 inches. Weight, 142. Age, 22.

The backbone of a club, the shortstop continues, at second base. The brunt of the fielding chances center there and upon the combined strength of its hardians depends, in a great measure, the repelling of the slingers' assaults with the bat. Moreover, it is at second base that the best-footed base stealers die, and it is in this same deadly corner that acts as the pivot for those crushing double plays which so deadly take the life out of the opposing club. An innumerable second base position requires a nicety of balance and a perfection of cooperation between those two players who fill the infield gap at second and short. Now and again, in a baseball generation, two players are found who fulfill all the requirements for this difficult role. And where they occur is the foundation of a formidable club.

When John Evers left Chicago, he found another Tinker at his right hand. And in this fact the good people who are unable to account for the astonishing success of the Braves, may find their explanation. Of Evers, we have nothing to say. His exploits have been told often and well. But the career of Maranville must be written as the story of the most sensational shortstop in the National League.

The "Rabbit" well deserves his name. Those spectators who have seen him swim along the ground, scoop up a slipping grounder, a few hot inches from the dusty surface, and line it with the speed and precision of a life bullet to first, will appreciate the aptness of the nickname. Probably the most distinctive player in the big leagues, one of the fleetest and surest judges of a ball close to the ground, he is a marvel, in action a living realization of all that becomes the natural ball player.

"Rabbit" Maranville, otherwise christened Walter J. in the nineteenth of November, 1892. The name suggests French ancestry, but as both his parents were unmistakably Irish, it is safe to assume that the various rumors of French or Spanish origin, claimed for the youthful prodigy, are rumors only. Maranville played on the local grammar school team as a pitcher. He also played on the local high school club, and eventually, with a strong, semi-professional aggregation, known as the Blue Label. His work was stellar, and it was generally conceded that he had a big league berth in reserve, even at that early age. A large step toward that goal was taken when he was signed up for the New Bedford club of the New England League. The best of whole lot, Portuguese immigrants, and out-looks, was duly and visibly impressed with the antics of the new addition to their club. And as New Bedford is no great distance from Boston, the latter city, in due time heard of his exploits. And in the fall of 1912, the National club of that city signed Maranville to a contract, and installed him as short.

It was not, however, until 1913, that Maranville began to burn up the circuits and remind the admiring public that Hans Wagner did not possess an unlimited mortgage on those talents requisite to a shortstop in good standing. His hitting remained rather flimsy, but his fielding was grand. The individual public remembering that the shortstop is the most valuable for his ability to knock down twisting grounders and line them to first base, welcomed Maranville like a long lost brother, and his career was fairly commenced.

In many respects, Maranville's work on the diamond duplicates that of Owen Bush, of the Tigers. Bush also is a nidget in stature, one of the hardest men in the world to pitch to, a marvel of fielding effectiveness, and a fast man on the bases. Incidentally, there are many people who consider Bush the greatest shortstop in the American league, just as there are many who make the same claim for Maranville in the National.

Maranville is not yet twenty-two years old. Coming up from obscurity, to a display height at the pinnacle of his profession, and linked for the first time in his career with a winning club, there is much to turn a youngster's head. Some people have claimed as much for Maranville in his circus stunts and grandstand plays on the field. There is no evidence, however, of such a serious defect, for no defect in a player is more serious than this same clumsiness, or more apt to annihilate brilliant prospects. Quiet, likable, by no means boastful, Maranville's future exploits will be watched with interest by a whole army of earnest well-wishers.

The Klavicle Overcoat

(By the House of Kuppenheimer)

WHEN you are ready to treat yourself to a bang-up overcoat—when you are tired of mediocrity, the commonplace, the fair-to-middling in overcoats—try America's master overcoat makers—the great Overcoat House—the House of Kuppenheimer.

Here, for example, is the last word in the loose, button-through overcoat, cut in the new manner. An adaptation of the Cavalryman's Cape—full back and full sleeves from one piece of cloth without a seam. Wide velvet collar, full soft-roll lapel, patch pockets with flaps, sleeves finished with a cuff. Front closes with half-ball buttons of buffalo horn.

You should get into the KLAIVCLE to appreciate its effect at shoulders and collar; its clean drape and generous lines.

In loose overcoats this is the coat of the hour. With a swing and style becoming to most men, it is warm, easy, comfortable, suitable for the street, for all-round wear and for driving your car. Free play for the arms; no seam to bind or make the shoulder ache.

The KLAIVCLE is authoritative—a definite overcoat achievement—and should not be confused with the welter of indiscriminate slip-over coats that flood the market this season.

We want you to know us better and want to know you. We are going to talk to you right along in this newspaper. Kuppenheimer Overcoats are sold by a representative dealer in nearly every Metropolitan center of the United States and Canada. If you will give us your name on a post-card we will be glad to send you our Book of Fashions.

STALLINGS AND MACK IN WRANGLE OVER USE OF PARK

THE SPORTLIGHT BY GRANTLAND RICE

Some weeks ago the Giants complained that every one was pulling against them to win—and pulling lustily for the Braves. Several of the players stated that this solid force of hostile public opinion had a depressing effect and made them feel as if they were fighting against a popular cause.

Practically the entire commonwealth is now pulling for the Braves to upset the Mackmen. Even many Philadelphia fans would about as soon see the old order changed for variety's sake and Boston's great rear rewarded with a final triumph.

But whether all this will have as depressing an effect on the Athletics as it had on the Giants, is a number of fathoms beyond our depth in the psychological seas.

The Mackmen are not what you might call teaming with temperance. A ball game to them is a ball game—and nothing more—regardless of what other people may think about it—or them. No one could ever accuse the Hon. C. Bender, or F. Baker or E. Plank, of being high strung emotionalists, dependent upon any psychic waves that might be rolling through the atmosphere at any given time.

On the other wing, the Braves' entire machine morals is based upon temperance. They are a club of inspiration. To have this inspiration extended until the series is on—and extended far enough to allow them to play well above their normal form—is their one chance to win.

PEP IN THE SERIES.

Here is another little stray by play that might inject some additional pep into the carnival head.

Back in July when the threatened players' strike over the Kraft came up, about the only club in the major leagues that refused to strike was the Athletics. Even that far ahead they had already inhaled the fragrant odor of world series kale—and they were taking no risks. Several of them came out in the open, announcing their stand with the megaphone.

At that time the Braves were last. They were strictly in favor of standing by the fraternity, and were bitter at the men of Mack. One night in Pittsburgh they got together and sent a telegram to this effect: Philadelphia Athletics, Philadelphia, Pa.

You are a bunch of quitters without the courage to stand with your own people.

BOSTON BRAVES.

The Mackmen haven't forgotten that telegram. Neither have the Braves. And there is a stout possibility that more than one impassioned argument will develop before the series is over.

PLANK AND THE BRAVES.

Ed Plank looks better now than he did at this stage a year back. He had a much better year in 1914 than he did in 1913. If he pitches only as well as he did against the Giants in three games he will be the hardest of them all to beat. Plank is now forty years old—and the left-handed marvel of the game. He was a world series factor nine years ago—and he was then over thirty. This is his fifth world series affair.

But Stallings isn't bothering so much about Plank. C. Albert Bender, the wily recluse, is the one he fears most.

"Undi we came to New York and had the pennant won," says Stallings, "we had lost but one game to a left-hander since July 1. This Alphonso, of Brooklyn, beat us one day, but the rest were slaughtered by our fire. We drove most of them to cover within a few rounds. I ran in a combination that will murder almost any left-hander around. Sallee couldn't stop us, and neither could Vaughn. We picked up Marquard and Rucker, Benton and all the rest alike. I know Plank is a fine pitcher, but I don't believe he can hold us to less than three runs—and three runs with James, Rudolph or Tyler in shape will be enough."

MARANVILLE AND BARRY.

"I see," continued Stallings, "that one critic says that Maranville is in some respects a better ball player than Barry, but that Barry is smarter. He must have quite a brain. Maranville is one of the smartest ball players I ever saw. He made himself what he is just as Cobb designed himself—by the work and practice he put into it. I know Plank is an intelligent way. If Maranville had had the ambition that the average ball player has he would still be only an average ball player. Few people ever just how hard the Rabbit has fought and worked to make himself a star."

Big Parker in Sewanee Line

SEWANEE, Tenn., Oct. 8.—With every man in good condition after the first game of the season with Cumberland Saturday, including Rube Parker, who could not play on account of not having yet qualified in some of his studies, the Tiger squad is putting in some of the most strenuous work in the history of the school, in order to be ready to meet the strong Georgia bunch Saturday.

The marked attention Coach Gardner has been showing the line, both on opening holes and stopping plunges, has developed the defensive tactics of the Tiger squad remarkably, while Head Coach Cope is putting finger into his back field charges.

Frank Juhn, a former Sewanee football star, and all southern center on the Sewanee championship team of 1913, is lending his services, together with "Heavy" McCallum, who was last year's captain and guard.

The line-up against Georgia will not be given out until later, but will very likely be chosen from the following men: Ends, Walton, Cradford or Boyd; tackles, Parker and Dobbin; guards, Perry and Lettwith; center, Rucker or Scott; fullback, Tully; halfback, Tally; halfback, Rhoads; Sellers or Ellerbe.

The halfback positions are being strongly contested for by Rhoads, Sellers and Ellerbe, as all three players, being fast, good round gainers, and heavy players, are evenly matched. All of these will be used Saturday.

Mrs. "Red" Smith Received News of Husband's Injury While Shopping in Boston

Flash on Street Bulletin Board Told the Story, and She at Once Boarded New York Train

(Special Dispatch to The Journal)

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 8.—The story of how Mrs. J. Carlisle Smith, of Atlanta, received the news of the accident to her husband, "Red" Smith, third sacker of the Boston Braves, who broke his ankle sliding to second in the Brooklyn game Tuesday, is an interesting one.

Mrs. Smith resides here on Westland avenue, Back Bay. Tuesday afternoon she was shopping on Summer street, and stopped in front of a newspaper bulletin board, where returns from the Boston-Brooklyn game were being flashed.

Suddenly she saw "Red" Smith, Braves' third-sacker, break his leg. "That's my husband!" exclaimed Mrs. Smith in the momentary shock of the news, then calmed herself, stopped into a nearby booth, and telephoned to Lowell, Mass., fifty miles away, to have her little girl, Margaret, brought into Boston.

Without stopping to go home, she

Watching a world's series makes one realize that the big eastern cities do not have the commission form of government. If they had five mayors, think how the ball fields would be cluttered up.

Alabama Boys Leave Friday Night to Play Florida in Jacksonville—Lindsey Looks Good as Line Plunger

AUBURN, Ala., Oct. 8.—The Auburn squad has struck a line of speed in the practice scrimmage of this week. The team is fast rounding into shape for the first real battle of the season, which is to be pulled off on Saturday when Auburn goes up against the boys from the Alligator state at Jacksonville.

The interference so far this season has been exceptionally good for so early in the year. Much work this year has been done in perfecting the forward pass.

Louiselle is kicking in his same fine form and the punts are going even longer this season than last.

Considerable relief is felt for the line since the return of Thippen. This leaves Bessinger, Lockwood, Christopher and Newell as the only losses to the Auburn squad from last season. These losses are severe enough, but it is hoped that their places can be filled before the end of the season.

In the game against Hamilton last Saturday, Lindsey, who played full back for the scrub all of last season, went into the game with the second squad

Waycross Head Still Problem

WAYCROSS, Ga., Oct. 8.—There is no longer any doubt that Waycross will be in the Georgia State league next season, but it has been generally understood that Convey did not want to be at the head in 1915. Vice President James Sinclair is now attending the world series and may get a line on a lively young manager while east. He has had several in view since the close of the season.

Convey filed the place made vacant last season by Wild Bill Clark's resignation, but it has been generally understood that Convey did not want to be at the head in 1915. Vice President James Sinclair is now attending the world series and may get a line on a lively young manager while east. He has had several in view since the close of the season.

Studebaker

September Was the Biggest Month in the History Of The Studebaker Corporation

In point of sales, in number of Studebakers actually sold and delivered, not only was last month the biggest September, but the biggest individual month in all the sixty-two years of Studebaker business. Isn't it remarkable that this should be true just at this time!

Studebaker Business for September, 1914, (Automobile Division only) Sales of "SIXES" and "FOURS"—$4,277,797.92

Total Average Gain 232 Per Cent

N. B.—These are merely Branch Sales and do not include the tremendous direct sales to Studebaker Distributors and Dealers—which show an equivalent gain.

Does this unprecedented Studebaker Prosperity not reflect at least normal business conditions for the whole American people?

We believe, too, that the widely spread volume of Studebaker sales in September demonstrates that American prosperity is general.

Studebaker dealers everywhere broke records in September. Every state, county, city and village in the country showed tremendous Studebaker gains.

That means that the economic conditions of this country are universally and intrinsically sound.

This means more than isolated optimism.

It means national soundness and national confidence.

Actual September Studebaker Sales.

Analyze those figures. You realize that they are proof, not merely of the national popularity of a long established house and its standard-product, but of the unflattering courage and untroubled outlook of the American people.

Also those astonishing figures prove more than the overwhelming popularity of the Studebaker line, the new Studebaker "FOURS" and Studebaker "SIXES," and the distinctive Studebaker manufacturing methods and ideals and integrity.

Those astonishing figures attest the national appreciation of what has gone before in the sixty-two years of Studebaker history.

That is Studebaker Service.

The Studebaker Corporation does not merely sell a motor. It sells motoring.

A Studebaker purchaser buys not merely a Studebaker car—but he also buys Studebaker Factory Service.

The Studebaker Corporation is represented not merely by salesmen, but by Servicemen.

The Studebaker Corporation keeps Studebaker cars running for Studebaker owners.

Every city and village in the country is a Studebaker service-station.

Studebaker Branches, Studebaker representatives everywhere, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, from Canada to the Rio Grande, are equipped, are instructed, are pledged to give Studebaker Service.

For such service the Studebaker Corporation has more than $1,000,000 worth of Studebaker parts distributed among Studebaker representatives.

That means immediate, economical, personal service to Studebaker owners—everywhere.

This one achievement of organization has entered, we believe, largely into the achievement of Studebaker Sales. Studebaker owners everywhere are selling Studebakers for us.
